BENJAMIN MICHAUD	)

AFFIDAVIT

I, Benjamin Michaud, do hereby state as follows:

1. I am the defendant in this case.
2. On January 4, 2010 I was a passenger in a car that had been stopped by police officers on North Street in Lexington, Massachusetts.
3. The driver of the car had agreed to give me a ride to the Burlington Mall.
4. Shortly after leaving the driveway of that gentleman's home, an unmarked police car with flashing interior lights pulled up behind the car I was traveling in as a passenger.
5. In response, the driver pulled our car over to the right-hand side of the road.
6. The officer asked the driver a few questions and suddenly drew his gun and pointed it at me and at the driver.
7. Within what seemed like seconds a number of other uniformed officers appeared and I was removed from the car.

8. The officers placed hand-cuffs on me, walked me to a marked police car and pushed me onto the hood of the car.
9. I was searched by the police while sprawled on the hood of the cruiser and they also searched the car in which I was a passenger.

Signed under the pains and penalties of perjury this 14th day of September, 2010.
